Q. Are there any plans to improve the tennis and playground facilities at Recreation Park? As it is now, no one can play night tennis because the court lights don't work, and children have to wait in long lines because there aren't enough swings. Mrs. L. M. M., Long Beach.

A. Yes. Preliminary work began Thursday to improve both the tennis courts and the playground equipment, said Duane George, associate recreation director of Long Beach. Old light standards are being removed and a completely new lighting system will be installed. In addition, George says, all six courts will be resurfaced—a job which he estimates will take about six weeks. As for the playground, the recreation department has ordered four new pony swings, two spring "animals" for youngsters to bounce on, and a slide looking like a giant fish. "These playthings will be installed as soon as we receive them from the supplier," George says.

Q. In a few weeks the new swimming pool in my back yard will be completed, and I know the neighborhood children will want to join my youngsters swimming. For safety's sake, can Action Line tell me where I can get some literature on mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and water safety? J. J., Norwalk.

A. Sure. ACTION LINE is sending you a pamphlet supplied by the Long Beach Red Cross explaining the technique of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. You might want to go to the Red Cross office at 319 W. Broadway and look over their selection of safety and first-aid booklets which sell for 75 cents. Others who want information or pamphlets call 437-2921.

FBI Probes Crash That Killed 34

BLOSSBURG, Pa. Saturday (UPI) — Agents of the FBI today were investigating the possibility of sabotage aboard a Mohawk jetliner that crashed on an Allegheny hilltop near here Friday, taking the lives of all 34 persons on board.

FBI spokesmen admitted they had been called in to probe the possibility that a bomb had been placed on the plane.

THE AIRLINE said the plane, a British-made BAC111 fan-jet en route from Syracuse, N.Y., to Washington, D.C., crashed from an altitude of 6,000 feet 13 minutes after take-off from Chemung County Airport near Elmira, N.Y., its only scheduled stop.

THE TWIN-JET, with 30 passengers and a crew of four, crashed on Bower's Hill about two miles east of this rural community in the Allegheny Mountains, 47 miles south of Elmira.

A number of witnesses reported seeing the tail section break from the plane shortly after 2:45 p.m.

John L. Thompson of Lockport, a member of a logging team working a half mile away, said he watched as "the tail section broke off and it blew up, before it hit the ground."

Fifty Arrested as Johnson Dines

By BOB SCHMIDT

Thousands of screaming, defiant anti-Vietnam war protesters crumpled before determined ranks of Los Angeles city police Friday night as President Johnson dined peacefully with 1,500 fellow-Democrats at the Century Plaza Hotel.

Moving with military precision under the personal command of Police Chief Thomas Reddin, the officers formed flying wedges, used nightsticks like bayonets and split the unruly mob into two groups.

Then they methodically routed the divided protesters, clearing them from the area surrounding the hotel in 40 tense, violent minutes.

More than 50 demonstrators were arrested. Many of the marchers were injured, only a few serious enough to require treatment. A police officer, his face bleeding after being struck with a sign, said he saw four of the protesters with wounds nearby.

THE SERIES of melées began at about 9 p.m., and hundreds of hotel guests witnessed the battle from their balconies. When the disorder subsided at about 9:40, the spectators applauded the policemen as they resumed their ranks around the hotel entrance.

Officers issued the first of three orders to disperse at 8:30 p.m., an hour after the march began in nearby Cheviot Hills Park.

The procession began with a scuffle involving two girls who were arrested when they refused to remove their car from the parade at the request of the organizers.

The parade moved slowly but peacefully along Pico Boulevard to the Avenue of the Stars; the main thoroughfare on which the hotel is situated.

The ranks swelling continuously, the protesters marched until the front of the half-mile-long procession was just past the hotel entrance, where it was to turn right and proceed in a circle around a parking lot. Instead, many of the marchers stopped, and refused pleas of parade monitors to move along. Some sat down.

A POLICE lieutenant waited 10 minutes, then declared over a loudspeaker that the assembly was unlawful and that persons refusing to move would be arrested.

Over the loudspeaker, the lieutenant said, "In the name of the people of the state of California —" and that was as far as he got when the crowd jeered in response, "We are the people."

Many Summit Questions Force a Second Meeting

By MAX FRANKEL

New York Times Service

GLASSBORO, N.J. —

President Johnson and Soviet Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin talked for 5½ hours here Friday about the Middle East, Vietnam and arms control, and ran out of time before they ran out of things to say.

Emerging arm-in-arm with broad smiles, the two leaders announced they had agreed to meet here again at 1:30 Sunday afternoon.

Johnson characterized the meeting as "very good and very useful" and placed particular emphasis on his agreement with Kosygin that it was "now" very important to reach international agreement on a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Kosygin, expressing

Conservative Heads Young GOP

Combined News Services

Entrenched conservatives rolled over party moderates Friday in Omaha, Neb., to elect Jack McDonald of Nashville, Tenn., as Young Republican National Federation chairman.

McDonald, who campaigned as a conservative and for independence of the youth organization from domination by the senior Republican National Committee, succeeds Tom Von Sickle of Fort Scott, Kan.

The new chairman's selection for a two-year term which spans next year's presidential nominating convention seemed to point toward organized Young Republican opposition to a moderate candidate such as Gov. George Romney of Michigan. There was a great deal of enthusiasm among the conservatives for Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, principal speaker at the convention's wind-up banquet. (Story Page A 7).

United Republicans of America, a conservative organization which has no connection with the Young Republican convention, put out the results of a poll of delegates. This showed Reagan 152, Nixon 100, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York 36, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois 24, and Romney 21.

SOUL IN SPINE

"I am conscious of being on this earth many times. I am on the earth this time because I wanted to be. I need not be incarnate again."

Nora Higgins, 58, Branscomb, Calif., made this statement while testifying Friday at Phoenix of the James Kidd soul-search probe hearing. Mrs. Higgins claimed to have lived at the time of Christ and Napoleon and in America before its discovery.

"One of my earliest memories of my present life is hearing a pop. The soul force sleeps in the base of the spine. When the body makes the change called death the soul force travels upward, gathering the soul and mind, wraps itself in the aura and escapes through the head," said Mrs. Higgins.

Mrs. Higgins claimed to have known Christ, to have walked and talked with him and knelt at the cross. "I can still remember his blood falling on my arms," she said.

If Mrs. Higgins receives the $250,000 estate she plans to rewrite and correct the Bible. The court also took under consideration the cases of Beulah Miller, a Corona, Calif., woman, and Paul E. Sloane. The hearing was recessed until Tuesday.

VIC SUES

Singer-actor Vic Damone Friday sued the producers of the motion picture "Spree," demanding they pay him $1 million damages and delete his name, voice and likeness from the film and its advertising. The complaint filed at Santa Monica against United Producers Organization and others claims they bought footage Damone had filmed for a musical-variety picture and used it without his consent in an "adults only" movie. Damone states that he contracted to perform in "Las Vegas Nights," an "all ages" picture to be tied in campaign.

Judge Edward J. O'Connor granted a temporary restraining order enjoining the use of either the film or the advertising until a hearing on July 7.

Worst U.S. Copter
Crash Kills 21

Combined News Services

CAMP LIEJUNE, N.C. — In what was apparently the worst helicopter tragedy in history, 21 Marines died and 14 others were injured Friday when a small Marine 'copter darted skyward during "touch and go" landing practice and sliced into a huge troop-carrying helicopter. Six of those hurt were in critical condition. The worst previous helicopter crash in the U.S. happened in Chicago July 27, 1960, killing 13 persons. Pentagon officials said they could not recall any Vietnam helicopter crash taking as many lives as the Friday accident. The collision sliced the tail off the larger 'copter, a Sea Stallion carrying 33 persons, and it spiraled to earth spewing bodies from its shattered fuselage. The smaller craft, an HUH-1B, plunged to the ground and witnesses said it "looked like it completely burned up in 20 seconds." Its two occupants were killed. In another air disaster Friday, four airliner crewmen and 30 passengers—at first mistakenly identified as U.N. delegates—perished in a crash near Blossburg, Pa.

Negroes, Kodak Settle

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — The Eastman Kodak Co. Friday reached an agreement with a militant Negro organization to cooperate in finding jobs and developing training programs for this city's unskilled Negroes. The agreement came after six months of bitter fighting between the huge photographic company and FIGHT (Freedom, Integration, God, Honor—Today), the Negro group, over an agreement for a job training program for 600 Negroes that was signed by a Kodak assistant vice president on Dec. 20 and repudiated by the company two days later.

Aftershocks Continue

FAIRBANKS — Another series of earth tremors, one of the strongest aftershocks since Wednesday's severe quakes, awakened residents Friday but no injuries or damage resulted. From 1:55 to 2:04 a.m. seven shocks were recorded, the first measuring just under 6 on the Richter scale. An eighth jolt occurred at 5:27 a.m.

International

Hussein Urges
Action by Arabs

WASHINGTON — King Hussein of Jordan, coming to the U.S. to address the U.N. Monday, said Friday night the Arab world is at a "crossroad, the turning point for the future" and a summit meeting of Arab leaders is urgently needed to agree on an Arab position. They should gather, he said, "so that it will be no end of an Arab nation, but the beginning." Asked about President Johnson's five-point peace program for the Middle East, Hussein said: "I resent very much indeed, but appreciate help and support, that this problem should be dealt with by outsiders without the Arab world itself stating a position." His statements came as sources close to the Arab delegations reported anger and resentment over maverick Romania's bolting the Communist line Friday at the U.N. to call for settlement of the Middle East crisis by direct Arab-Israeli negotiations with no outside interference.

Romanian Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer refused to condemn Israel as demanded by Russia and its other satellites. But he echoed Canada's call earlier for an Israeli pullback to positions held before the six-day Middle East war began June 5. Romania became the first Communist country to back the Western line championed by Washington and London. Other Mideast developments:

(1) The New York Times Service reported Israel is slowly demobilizing enlire units of its citizen army. (2) Israeli troops fired on two Red Cross representatives, apparently by mistake, as they approached the River Jordan cease-fire line. The men were not hurt. (3) The U.S. abruptly canceled its technical-assistance programs to the U.A.R. (4) Tons of powdered milk, medicine, vitamins, tents and blankets were assembled at New York's Kennedy Airport to be airlifted to Middle East war victims. (5) Egyptian officials reiterated the Suez Canal will remain closed until Israel vacates the Sinai Peninsula.

Viet Battles Brew

SAIGON — U.S. Navy bombers attacked the Nam Dinh electric power plant south of Hanoi Friday for the second straight day and U.S. warplanes struck railroad yards and a surface-to-air missile site in North Vietnam. In South Vietnam, no major ground activity was reported. The aerial assault on the Nam Dinh area appeared the major raid of the day over North Vietnam. Bombers from the aircraft carrier Constellation simultaneously pounded the city's 7,500-kilowatt power plant, 46 miles southeast of Hanoi, and the nearby railroad yards.

U.S. headquarters said reconnaissance photos after the power plant raid showed destruction of the plant's generator hall and heavy damage to the transformer house, coal processing plant and boiler houses. Thailand-based Air Force bombers struck at crowded railroad yards close to the MIG airbase at Kep, 38 miles northeast of Hanoi, and attacked a surface-to-air missile site 35 miles northwest of Haiphong. In South Vietnam, U.S. B-52 heavy bombers pounded an enemy troop concentration 23 miles southwest of Da Nang in the northern part of the country Friday night. They followed up with a raid this morning on base camps, bunkers and trenches 17 miles northeast of Kontum City in the Central Highlands.

Red Mobs Burn Car

HONG KONG — Trouble flared again in Hong Kong Friday night when mobs burned three cars following a clash between police and members of a leftist union. One man was shot by a police constable and later died in a hospital. The new disturbances followed a call by the Communist press for a strike by most transportation workers and employees of public utilities. Similar strike calls have had limited effect but this time the leftist unions are believed making a concerted effort to embarrass the Hong Kong government.

A-Bomb Alerts End

WASHINGTON — The U.S. has discontinued its advance forecasts of Communist China's nuclear tests — a practice that was designed to cushion the impact of the explosions on her neighbors. U.S. officials said the U.S. was fully aware of the preparations for the successful Chinese hydrogen bomb test last Saturday. But they said the decision to stop forecasting was based on a belief that China's neighbors are now sufficiently aware of her nuclear capability that they no longer need to be alerted in advance.

Priesthood Screening

VATICAN CITY — The Roman Catholic Church will look to doctors and psychologists to weed out priesthood candidates unable to cope with the celibacy and loneliness which make the priest "closer to Christ and a better man." This is the answer of Pope Paul VI to growing pressures in the church to permit priests to marry. The pontiff issued a 13,000-word encyclical describing the celibate state as a "brilliant jewel" which has been guarded by the church for centuries and which will continue to be "firmly linked to the ecclesiastical ministry." He acknowledged that the church had experienced a "disquieting decline" in the ranks of the priesthood, but said "it simply not possible to believe that the abolition of ecclesiastical celibacy would considerably increase the number of priestly vocations." The encyclical said that "the sexual instinct is not all that man has" and that a man could master himself if properly motivated in the service of God.

GRANDPA WINS

Pat and Luci Nugent are calling their famous son "Lyn" even though his full name is Patrick Lyndon Nugent. Grandfather President Johnson thus gets the top billing after all. The baby was named Patrick for his father's grandfather and Lyndon for his grandfather, the President. But it is going to be "Lyn" to the family, the nickname the young Nugents announced Friday at Seton Hospital. The baby, reported "progressing beautifully," won't be photographed until he leaves the hospital, Sunday at the earliest.

6 MONTHS

Novelist Ken Kesey was sentenced at Redwood City Friday to six months in jail, fined $1,500 and placed on three years probation for possession of marijuana after a raid on his La Honda home.

NEW TERM

Rudolph K. Detteneider, former mayor of Hayward, was sentenced to six months in prison Friday for failing to list $35,810 in real estate commissions on his 1963 federal tax return.

$7,000 FINE

Dr. Herman Taller was fined $7,000 in New York Friday on charges of mail fraud, and conspiracy and federal drug violations stemming from publication of his best selling book "Calories Don't Count." Taller, 56, of New Rochelle, N.Y., was placed on probation for two years.

Taller, a specialist in weight problems, was convicted of 12 counts May 10 after a five-week jury trial in which the government labeled a "worthless fraud" his theory that the addition of safflower oil to the diet resulted in a loss of weight.

TO THE GRAVE

Charles Schmid, convicted at Phoenix late last month for second-degree murder in the death of Alleen Rowe, Friday led sheriff's deputies to her grave.

The Pima County sheriff's department would not reveal any details of the action, but said Schmid volunteered to show officers where he, John Saunders and Mary Rae French buried the girl. Schmid received a 50-year to life sentence, Saunders received life and Miss French received a 4 to 5 years for being an accomplice.

Schmid has also been sentenced to die in the Arizona gas chamber for the death of sisters, Gretchen and Wendy Fritz in 1965. Miss Rowe was last seen in 1964.

LONER'S TREK

The "loner" of the civil rights movement, James H. Meredith, sets out today from Hernando, Miss., to resume a 210-mile march that was abruptly halted last year when he was hit by sniper fire. Meredith, who broke the racial barrier at the University of Mississippi, said he would be unarmed, and that his only "training" for the long trek through the heart of Mississippi had been a single round of golf. The hike from Hernando to Jackson will take about 10 days.

NO FELONY

The district attorney's office said Friday there was insufficient evidence to warrant felony child-beating charges in a case involving Jayne Mansfield's 16-year-old daughter. The case will be turned over to the city attorney's office for a possible misdemeanor complaint.

Jayne Marie, the daughter, was released Wednesday from custody at McLaren Hall, the juvenile center where she had been since Saturday night, and has gone to live with a close relative. Young Jayne turned herself into police Saturday night, saying she had been beaten.

LOVE'S PRICE

Amorous Eugene Pera, convicted of over-intimate relations with his wife on a North Beach San Francisco sidewalk, was sentenced Friday to 10 days in jail. Pera was convicted May 12 in a jury trial.

BERGEN HURT

Entertainer Edgar Bergen, 64, was admitted to Washoe Medical Center in Reno Friday for observation after suffering a small laceration on the forehead. He has been appearing at a Lake Tahoe casino on a bill also featuring Edie Adams.

Kosygin Serenaded

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin was serenaded by the 86-member Glassboro high school band as he started back to New York after Friday's meeting here with President Johnson.

FOLSOM (AP) — A Folsom Prison convict is being questioned in the fatal stabbing of his cellmate — the second knifing death of a fellow inmate in which he's been involved within five years.

Vaughn is serving time for second-degree murder in the 1962 slaying of another convict, who tried to prevent several convicts from taking a small group of visitors hostage in the prison chapel during an escape attempt.

Blow's screams echoed through the cell block at about 7 a.m., said Grant Saltzman, an assistant to the warden. Blow was dead on arrival at the prison hospital.

cluding a 98 per cent hike in income taxes and a one cent on the dollar boost in the sales tax — virtually as Reagan submitted it. A substitute plan intended as a compromise was rejected.

THE ACTION by the Revenue and Taxation Committee, evenly divided between Democrats and Republicans, clears the way for the Finance Committee, controlled 7-5 by the Democrats, to rewrite the Republican governor's bill.

Once the tax bill clears the Senate, it will go to the Assembly where it may be rewritten again. A rival tax plan failed earlier in the lower house because of a deadlock over Speaker Jesse M. Unruh's demand that the state initiate the payroll withholding system of collecting income taxes.

Thus Miller, 53, a Democrat from Martinez, holds a whip hand over both of the legislature's big money bills, the budget and the tax package.

THE SENATE Revenue and Taxation Committee sent the tax bill to the Finance Committee Thursday night. Miller immediately announced the bill would not leave his committee until the budget is signed into law by the governor.

Miller predicted the conference committee would complete work on the budget in time for it to reach Reagan's desk by Wednesday, two days before the beginning of the new fiscal year. The senator said he hopes Reagan will sign the measure the same day he receives it.

Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, author of the administration tax package, urged Miller to move his bill prior to enactment of the budget. He said the tax package must go to the Assembly after the Senate finishes with it and unless it is enacted by July 1 the state will begin to lose $10 million a week in needed revenue. But Miller, a 20-year legislative veteran, was adamant.

"Get the old man (Reagan) to sign the bill on the 28th of June, and I'll kick your bill out on the 28th," he told Deukmejian.

The governor has the constitutional authority to eliminate or reduce appropriations voted by the legislature. By holding the tax bill, Miller and his committee will have added bargaining power in dealing with the governor on budget items.

The Revenue and Taxation Committee approved the governor's bill — in

Kirschke Asks Dismissal; Hearing Set

Accused wife-slayer Jack Kirschke Friday asked for dismissal of two counts of murder against him.

Superior Court Judge Robert Feinerman scheduled a hearing on Albert C.S. Ramsey's motion for July 3 at 9 a.m. and assigned Judge Richard S.C. Hayden to hear the matter.

Ramsey said he would seek to show that the grand jury indictment against Kirschke, which was returned June 13, as "without reasonable and probable cause."

KIRSCHKE, a deputy district attorney for 10 years, has been under suspension since the indictment. He appeared calm and confident in court, and told newsmen that from what he had read of newspaper accounts of the grand jury proceedings "they don't have much to go on."

He declined to discuss specific points with the press except to say that much of the testimony given by friends and neighbors appeared to be "neighborhood gossip." He said "I'm like Will Rogers. All I know is what I read in the newspapers." The 45-year-old lawyer said he had no complaints about his county jail treatment except that he was bored.

Ramsey's request that Kirschke be allowed to use the law library in the jail was turned down by Judge Feinerman, who said the facilities were for the use of prisoners preparing their own cases only and not for defendants defended by counsel.

LBJ, Kosygin Talks

and better border arrangements.

ON VIETNAM, too, there appeared little real agreement. Johnson said only that it was useful to "at least explore" the South-east Asia situation.

But the stiffness of the past week, during which the two leaders bickered about the terms and the site for their meeting, appeared to have been completely dispelled by their face-to-face encounter.

The Soviet leader left no doubt that he endorsed Johnson's main theme of the day, which the President uttered in a brief luncheon toast. This theme was that the Soviet Union and the U. S. had a special responsibility to behave reasonably and constructively, and a special obligation "that we make it possible for other countries to live in peace with each other if this can be done."

Johnson said he and Kosygin agreed that they had made "some small contribution" to the ceasefire in this month's Middle East war, and were only sorry that they were unable to prevent it altogether — "although we tried."

The Johnson-Kosygin conference, held in the home of the president of Glassboro State College, was the fifth postwar meeting between an American president and a Soviet premier. It was the second in this country and, like the first, between former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev at Camp David, Md., in 1959, appeared destined to create at least a momentary season of a "new spirit" in relations between the two governments.

NOT ONLY WERE the difficult questions between the two countries not solved, but there appeared to have been no subsidiary agreements in relation to them. Nor had any such agreement been anticipated by the members of the American delegation as they arrived for the conference.

But beside finding nonetheless that they had many points of coincident interest, Johnson and Kosygin appeared to have "hit it off" extremely well on a personal level.

The President remarked at lunch, after the two men had spent nearly two hours alone with their interpreters, that the real results of their conference "will be judged by what we can achieve in the future in order to achieve peace."

But Johnson added that he hoped that the meeting had "contributed to getting us to know each other better and therefore to like each other better, just as our ambassadors in Moscow and Washington have

Wherever It Is,
Glassboro Not
Nowhere U.S.A.

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP)—Quiet little Glassboro, a sleepy college town of 12,800 persons, joined Yalta and Potsdam in the history books Friday—and in the minds of crowds of students, newsmen, policemen, tourists, popcorn salesmen and balloon peddlers.

"Why here of all places?" an excited Glassboro State College coed asked when she heard President Johnson and Premier Kosygin were en route to the 175-acre wooded campus for the seventh meeting of heads of U.S. and Soviet governments.

"Why not?" another coed said. "It's nowhere, halfway between New York and Washington."

become more acquainted and liked by the people they deal with."

The public display of goodfellowship persisted as each man moved from the college president's home past several thousand Glassboro residents after the conference.

After driving only about 50 yards, Kosygin jumped from his limousine and stood atop an embankment to acknowledge the cheers.

FIFTEEN MINUTES later Johnson emerged and he too went before the crowd, which was by now chanting "We Want Johnson."

"We had a good meeting today," he said. "And we liked things here so well we're coming here again on Sunday. You people have served your nation well by having us here."

In his brief statement to newsmen summarizing the meeting, the President also announced that whatever business is left unfinished Sunday would be carried on by Secretary of State Rusk and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in New York next week.

Talks at Glassboro Take Some of the Tension from Our Atmosphere

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The astonishing length of President Johnson's talks with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and the fact that they will meet again Sunday hints at the possibility that this was an historic moment — perhaps signaling a new era in Soviet-American relations.

The President and the premier discussed the Middle East and Vietnam. Nobody expected them to come up with ready solutions to what at the moment are largely insoluble problems. But the Glassboro summit is bound to have a heavy impact on the future course of world history.

A few days ago, many would have said that such a meeting would have been all but impossible in the context of what has been going on in the United Nations debate this week.

Indeed, the most important fact of this meeting would have been that the two men met at all. Now, the indications are that they really got down to cases. Perhaps that means future fruitful results. The face-to-face talks came at a time when the world had reason for worry. Once again Russia and America had looked at a prospect of showdown, this time over the Middle East war.

WHAT THIS summit accomplished was production of balm for the frayed nerves of a watching world which feared that a combination of the Middle East

Unable to Resist Cheers, Kosygin Jumps From Car, Speaks to Crowd

By PETER GROSE
New York Times Service

GLASSBORO, N.J. — The crowd cheered, the premier of the Soviet Union was ebullient—and all his words to the residents of Glassboro were full of good cheer and encouragement.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin probably could not resist the cheers and waves as he started driving off from his meeting with President Johnson. He stopped the car, jumped out, and, with Ambassador Anatoli Dobrynin as his interpreter, said this:

"I send you a greeting from the Soviet people — I want to assure you that our people want only one thing, and that is to live in peace with you; we want wars stopped."

The crowd cheered again, and one Glassboro resident shouted "Tovarich Kosygin — shake my hand." The premier responded, and in a sort of afterthought reference to the hours of discussion just concluded, he said:

"There are many beautiful and wonderful things to be done."

Dobrynin's translations could hardly be heard across the street crowded with several hundred bystanders, who had waited by the Victorian house of the president of Glassboro College since midmorning. Gesticulating and beaming, Kosygin showed more enthusiasm in public than at almost any other time in his 2½ years as the Soviet premier.

This was his first encounter with an American crowd, for during his week in New York he had confined himself to the business at the United Nations General Assembly, with only brief and aloof sight-seeing trips around the city.

When he first appeared with Johnson at the door of the college president's house, his normally dour face was wreathed in smiles. Observers saw immediately that, if looks were any indication, the summit meeting had gone well, so far.

The premier's motorcade resumed quickly after Kosygin's little talk and headed back to New York. Soviet officials accompanying the party seemed elated in the general excitement of Glassboro, though they declined to discuss the meeting or add anything to the formal statements made as the leaders came out.

and said, "I don't think excessive force was used."

At 9 p.m. the first phalanx of police moved into the protesters standing and sitting defiantly opposite the entrance to the hotel, driving them 200 yards across an open field that lies to the east of the 19-story structure.

Successive wedges, working with precision on numbered signals from commanders, sent the demonstrators reeling backwards.

A FEW rocks were thrown, but in general the marchers, ranging in age from infants cradled in the arms of parents to distinguished-looking senior citizens, did not attempt to fight with the police. Those few who did succumbed quickly to the club-swinging officers.

Half of the disorganized marchers were driven to heavily traveled Olympic Boulevard, there they milled about eventually forcing traffic to stop in both directions.

Several isolated incidents of violence erupted as motorists covered in their stalled vehicles, but the efficient lines of advancing police forced the protesters steadily backward. Flowers, shoes, purses, broken eyeglasses, and demonstrators' signs which called for peace littered the scene of the disorder.

By 10:05 p.m. the only persons in front of the Century Plaza was a line of white-helmeted police officers standing guard.

At the pre-parade rally in Cheviot Hills Park, speakers continually exhorted the marchers to remain peaceful and not to let the actions of a few rabble-rousers provoke them.

THE CROWD—estimated in figures that ranged upward from 10,000—included such varied elements as a large contingent from the Women's Strike for Peace movement to the late-arriving "Moonfire Funeral" group, weirdly garbed and parading behind four papier mache skulls mounted on poles.

The Peace Action Council sponsors of the march provided their own sound system, serving a range of purposes from solemn speeches to rallying songs and music.

The range of speakers itself covered a spectrum from Dr. Benjamin Spock, noted child behavior expert to former heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay.

DR. SPOCK, who has been active in anti-Vietnam War movements said of President Johnson: "I hate him just as much as anyone here."

He also said that when

Johnson was a Texas senator, "He had a reputation for never quitting. If we have as much energy (in the peace movement), the war would be over."

Spock paraded in the front line of marchers, but Clay announced that he would not join the march giving only his "conscience" as the reason.

Clay, who prefers his adopted Black Muslim name of Muhammad Ali, asserted he was in favor of the march and urged others to join it.

Kuchel Says Ordered Society Obviates War

"If the Arab nations were possessed of a rational social order, the threat of conflict with Israel would long ago have been dissolved," Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel told an American Legion audience in Anaheim Friday night.

"The search for the rule of law is as valid in international affairs as it is in Mississippi, Beverly Hills or Watts," he said.

"If 13 years ago the government of Vietnam, north and south, had found its base in the public will of the Vietnamese people, American men would not have to be fighting there today."

Kuchel addressed a banquet honoring retired Police Capt. Russell E. Hamlyn and Fire Capt. Rayford D. Knight.

Kuchel earlier announced he was canceling several scheduled appearances in California next week. He had to cancel them "regretfully," he said, "to do battle for the entire state's future water supply."

Kuchel explained he has to be in Washington next week when the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs resumes discussion on the use of water in the lower Colorado River basin.

Auto Shoots Metal Part, Kills Woman

HOLBROOK, Ariz. (AP)—A family's western vacation trip ended tragically when the transmission of a passing car exploded and shot a piece of metal through the mother's body.

Mrs. George Mihalik, 35, Warren, Ohio, was killed late Thursday as she sat at a roadside trailer park in this northern Arizona town, discussing the day's trip with fellow tourists.

Her daughter, Valerie, had her arm around her mother's back at the time, and the metal went through her left wrist, virtually severing the hand. The girl's hand was rejoined to the wrist at Winslow Memorial Hospital, and attendants said Friday it apparently would be saved.

A. Your subscription is terminated. A spokesman for the magazine said she's sorry for the trouble it cost you, "but we hate to lose even one of our readers."

Q. My mother-in-law holds 100 shares of common stock in the Trans Oceanic Film Corp., but has heard nothing from the firm's officers for the last two years despite her numerous requests. What can Action Line find out about this corporation? Mrs. J. B. H., Huntington Beach.

A. The corporation was suspended June 1, 1962, for not paying its franchise tax, according to records in the corporation index of the California Secretary of State. Once under suspension, a corporation cannot function legally until it clears its record with the secretary of state's office. Records of the Sacramento Franchise Tax Board show the firm abandoned an application for a permit to operate as a corporation in 1961. John Booker, corporations counsel for the California Division of Corporations in San Francisco, told ACTION LINE the president of the firm, Edward Bloch, resigned last year and informed the state the firm could no longer reply to mail due to a lack of funds. However, court records in San Francisco show the corporation hasn't filed for bankruptcy. Booker says any further action probably will require you to retain an attorney.

Q. A young woman friend of mine will have a birthday in July. Could you tell me who to contact to get her a picture of her favorite star—Paul Newman? J. R. B., Los Angeles.

A. Sure. Joe Halperin, public relations agent for actor Newman, says he'll send you a personalized, autographed photo of Newman. The actor, 41, is noted for his roles in "The Outrage," "The Hustler" and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof." He's known in Hollywood as one who shuns publicity in his private life and dislikes dull conformity.

Q. I've always been puzzled by the notations on my payroll checks—"S.D.I.," "F.I.C.A.," and "withholding." I know they're deductions, but what for? R. M., Wilmington.

LBJ: Peace Our Goal

sponsibility for world peace in the nuclear age."

"One meeting does not make a peace," Johnson said. "We all know that there have been meetings before and that they have not ended our troubles and dangers."

"I cannot promise you that this will not happen again. The world remains small and dangerous and all nations, even the greatest, have hard and painful choices ahead of them."

Johnson, shielded from the shouts of the demonstrators by the most rigid security blanket Los Angeles has ever seen, was at his witty best. He had a wisecrack for virtually every target in the political world.

On California—"The world has been told that a successful politician has to be something of an actor. California has proved it."

On show biz—"Many of you are interested in show business, especially motion pictures. I want you to know that I sleep better every night knowing Jack Valenti is your president."

On Premier Kosygin—"He has been a grandfather longer than I have. And he and I agreed we wanted world peace for our grandchildren."

The President in a white dinner jacket and blue pleated shirt was accompanied by his daughter, Lynda, who was in a blue beaded dinner dress and a high coiffure.

Shortly after his speech, Johnson rose in the midst of the entertainment program, shook a few hands and said goodbye at the head table and left the dinner. He was to fly in air Force One to Texas.

DREW PEARSON

Teddy 'Hop to' for Russell

By DREW PEARSON
and JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Day after day this week Senate debate droned on. For the sixth time in history, the august Senate of the United States sat in judgment on one of its own.

Seventy out of 100 members listened carefully, unhappily, obviously doing a disagreeable chore. One man only enjoyed the scene: Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, who hopped around the Senate floor like a sparrow searching for votes, not crumbs. He alighted on the Republican side of the aisle, beside Sen. Jacob Javits of New York, then went back to the Democratic side and started to speak.

He snapped his fingers. Up jumped Teddy Kennedy, the young senator from Massachusetts, like a dog obeying the master in an animal act. Teddy began to ask questions, planted questions helpful to the senator under censure. Nervous, ill-at-ease, unfamiliar with the questions, Teddy dutifully did his chore and got it over with.

The other member of the Kennedy family, Bobby, walked by Dodd's attorney, Eberhart Deutsch, gave him a friendly squeeze.

ANOTHER New England Democrat, Tom McIntyre of New Hampshire, stood up to ask pro-Dodd questions of Sen. Gene McCarthy of Minnesota. McIntyre also appeared nervous. Other senators could scarcely hear him. They asked him to speak up. Some wonder why Catholic Democrats from New England appeared anxious to save Tom Dodd. Could it be that they are influenced by the letters senators have been receiving from Catholic priests?

Claiborne Pell, an Episcopalian blueblood from the adjoining state of Rhode Island, whose great-grandfather, Lord Pell, sided with the British and fled to Canada in 1776, was both nervous and conscientious about his vote. Pell told colleagues he'd only vote for Dodd halfway. He sympathized with Dodd on double billing.

Other senators stood up, spoke out loud and clear for Senate ethics: Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., Wayne Morse, D-Ore., Norris Cotton, R-N.H., Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, Mike Monrney, D-Okla., Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.

THE SENATE galleries watched, entranced. In the tourist gallery, spectators sat only 15 minutes, then filed out to make way for a new group. Ex-employees of Sen. Dodd, unable to get regular seats, stood in line 45 minutes to get the privilege of sitting only 15 minutes in the tourist gallery. Then they were ushered out and had to spend another 45 minutes waiting to get back in. Their names were constantly being taken in vain by senators who seemed to want to warn their staffs not to follow the example of Dodd's employees. Yet they could hear only fragments of the debate which they started.

The Senate press gallery, usually deserted, was jammed, interested, slightly cynical Mary McGorery, neither cynical nor entranced, ran an admiring hand over Walter Mear's crewcut. The gesture interrupted neither the evenness of Walter's flat top nor his unflustered flow of words to the Associated Press. . . . Russell Long looked up from the Senate floor at the press gallery, spied one author of this column, made his hands move up and down in front of his mouth, like the jaws of a crocodile. Earlier, he had told the Senate: "Drew Pearson is a crocodile. . . . Jack Anderson is a snake." The debate continued.

Sitting in an overstuffed chair in one corner of the Senate chamber is a bald little man who occasionally beckoned Dodd's lawyers into conference. He is David Martin, an ex-Comm-nist Trotskyite, and closest man to Tom Dodd.

MARTIN is paid by all the taxpayers — not Sen. Dodd — to work on the Internal Security Committee to protect the United States. Yet he is giving all his time to Dodd, now and for many years previously. He has a desk in Dodd's office, and when elections are held in Connecticut, David Martin is up in Connecticut campaigning. He once was paid $1,000 out of Dodd's dinner funds as a campaign bonus.

Martin holds a sheaf of papers in his lap, watches the debate, sometimes calls Dodd's attorneys off the Senate floor for secret huddles. At one time he called off as many as seven Doddites for a strategy conference.

So went the debate during the sixth time in American history that a U. S. senator was up for censure, an unhappy debate by unhappy senators, the unhappy being Abe Ribicoff, the other senator from Connecticut, a Jew elected by Catholic votes who knows he must have those votes to be re-elected.

It's been a quibbling debate, with undue time wasted over procedure and minutiae; with Russell Long trying to wear the Senate out.

CAB PROPOSES

Airlines

May Charge for Drinks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board has proposed an end to free drinks aboard airlines.

The board has given the industry until July 24 to respond to a proposed rule that would require each airline to file provisions for the type and amount of charges for in-flight liquor service, in the same manner that they file passenger fares and cargo rates.

The tentative rule says that "It is the policy of the board to require that each passenger who receives such in-flight service shall be assessed a charge therefor which shall be reasonably related to the cost and value of the service, in all classes of service."

On most trunk airlines, first class passengers receive free drinks, and coach passengers pay $1 a drink.

The board explained its policy regarding liquor service is the same as that toward movies and other in-flight benefits. The CAB said these services are separate from the transportation functions of the airlines, and therefore the cost should be borne as much as possible by the passengers receiving the service.

BOOK REVIEWS

African History Vitalized

BLACK AFRICA: Vol. 1 — From Pre-History to Colonial Era. Vol. II — From the Colonial Era to Modern Times. By Russell Warren Howe. Walker, $7.50 per volume.

Every nation, every colony on the continent is treated in this lively, but not overpopulated account of Africa, from ancient civilizations which reached great heights in arts and politics (a fact unknown to too many in the West). Russell Warren Howe makes the no longer Dark Continent's story exciting as he traces great pre-colonial African empires, states with structures rivaling those of Europe, the great trade movements, the battle of the great religions for influence over the Africans, the coming of the white man and colonization, and finally, independence for most of Africa.

MEDITATIONS IN AN EMERGENCY. By Frank O'Hara. Grove Press, $3.50.

The reputation of poet Frank O'Hara was only just beginning to solidify when he was killed in an auto accident last year. At the time of his death, a number of critics were hesitantly acknowledging, or perhaps confessing, that O'Hara was indeed a vital, creative artist. Even poet-editor Oscar Williams allowed two of O'Hara's poems to be included in the latest edition of "The New Pocket Anthology of American Verse," an anthology used on most college campuses. (One might also note that the volume contains nine poems by editor Williams and only one by William Carlos Williams). The fact that there has been taken acceptance of O'Hara comes as something of a reversal. For a number of years O'Hara was panned off by some as just a late-blooming Beat of the post-"Howl" period and by others as someone whose work only approximated poetry.

Certainly, there are definite grounds for questioning whether indeed O'Hara was a poet. In his work he rarely bothered to follow even the basic dicta of the profession. He either ignored or was ignorant of all accepted tradition — but then such was the case with many poets of the 20's who have been deified in the 50's and 60's. One critic, John Ashbery, has said of O'Hara, "Without demonstrating awareness of even the basic etiquette of prosody, O'Hara grabs for the end product — the delight — and hands it over . . . to the reader, without excuses." "Meditations in an Emergency," a reissue of some of O'Hara's best work, clearly demonstrates that O'Hara often came to his readers rough-handed but rarely empty-handed. — Bill Wasserleher

FLIGHT FROM THE REPUBLIC. The Tories of the American Revolution. By North Callahan. Bobbs-Merrill, $6.50.

Some 100,000 Tories, whose loyalties remained with King George III during the American Revolution, became "displaced persons" when England lost the war. They were more often than not highly accomplished, professional men and cultured women, but they had backed the wrong horse, and, from Maine to Georgia, abandoned their homes, friends and belongings and escaped radical mobs just barely in time. North Callahan, N.Y.U. historian, tells their story with compassion and fills in some "blind spots" in Revolutionary War history.

Fireworks Tonight at Disneyland

Disneyland kicks off its biggest season of nighttime entertainment tonight with fireworks, bands and musical variety set for every night during the summer.

Disneyland regularly performing tonight include the Ward Gospel Singers, Bill Elliott's Orchestra, the Disneyland Mustangs, Young Men from New Orleans, Royal Tahitian Dancers, the Firehouse Five Plus Two and special guest Dobie Gray and his band.

Tinkerbell will make the first flight of the season, zooming down from Matterhorn Mountain and over the turrets of Sleeping Beauty's Castle every night at 9, setting off her "Fantasy in the Sky" fireworks.

THE WORLD OF WHEELS

The 14th annual Youth Safety Run, sponsored by Police Advisory Council for car clubs, starts a three-day run Monday to Yosemite National Park and back. This Dick Browning Oldsmobile Cutlass is first local car to enter run.

LOS ANGELES — Mercury Cougar production is being expanded by adding a second assembly line on the West Coast, according to E. F. Laux, Ford Motor Co. vice president and Lincoln-Mercury Division general manager.

Cougar production will begin at the company's San Jose assembly plant with the start of 1968 model production in August.

Describing the Los Angeles-San Francisco area as "Cougar Country," Laux said: "The reasons for this move should be quite obvious . . . nearly one of every five Cougar sales is made to a Californian."

"Cougar has been on heavy overtime schedules at the Dearborn, Mich., assembly plant since the first car was built last fall, and at times it has been a real scramble to keep pace with sales. The added production will give us a greater flexibility in meeting demand whenever it occurs."

Laux said the company will assemble Mustangs, Cougars and Ford light trucks at San Jose.

He said Cougar sales have passed the 90,000 mark nationally.

"I'm confident the auto industry is on the road to an 8.5-million-car year, barring a major labor disruption. An 8.5-million year would make 1967 the third best year in auto history,"

Laux said. He noted that Lincoln-Mercury sales have been running even stronger than industry as a whole and that 1967 deliveries passed the 1966 pace June 1. Lincoln-Mercury became the first multiline division to surpass its year-ago sales mark.

Lincoln-Mercury sales in the second quarter have increased 20 per cent over 1966. Retail orders are more than double a year ago, indicating that the sales surge will continue in the weeks ahead, he said.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Abort Death Trial Set

A San Bernardino physician, Dr. Henry H. Holder, 42, will be arraigned Monday in his home city on a Grand Jury indictment charging him with the abortion death of coed Sandra Sly, 19, of Garden Grove.

Up to a late hour Friday afternoon, Dr. Holder had not posted the $37,500 bail fixed by Superior Court, which sliced the bail demand in half on his affidavit that the $75,000 demanded by Assistant District Attorney Kenneth Pike was exorbitant.

Dr. Holder surrendered himself Thursday night under the Grand Jury true bill and was booked into the county jail.

He is accused of aborting Miss Sly, a 19-year-old student of California State College at Fullerton, on May 20, and with responsibility for her death May 23 in Orange County Medical Center from an infection.

The indictment also charged him with abortions Feb. 22, March 19, April 19 and May 3, all this year, and all on San Bernardino County women.

Freed on Bail

A 50-year-old Long Beach woman was freed on $1,500 bail Friday after she was booked on suspicion of four counts of grand theft from YWCA funds.

Ann Yvonne Houser, 4146 Clark Ave., is accused of using YWCA checking and charging accounts for $2,080 of her own purchases, the district attorney's office said.

The woman, mother of a teen-age daughter, was office manager of the YWCA's Camping Council of Southern California. She was arrested Thursday.

A Mother Burned

A Long Beach mother burned over 46 per cent of her body when she rushed back into her blazing apartment after leading her five-year-old son to safety, was in good condition at St. Mary's Hospital Friday.

Lorraine R. Stephenson, 1736 E. Fourth St., Apt. 19, returned to her apartment to rescue her two cats and a parakeet from the 1:15 a.m. fire.

The woman told police her apartment was full of smoke when she awoke and she leaped out of bed and rushed her son, Brian, out of the apartment.

When she returned to save the pets, her nylon nightgown caught fire.

Adjacent apartments were also damaged in the blaze, which fire officials said apparently started in a gas stove.

Only one of Mrs. Stephenson's cats escaped the blaze.

Rotary Scholarships

The Rotary Club of Long Beach announced Friday 19 cash scholarship awards for students in Long Beach City College and California State College at Long Beach.

The scholarships — $100 or $20 each — go to students seeking training in various occupations rather than general academic work. Occupations listed include accounting, dental assistant, electronics, secretary, nursing, auto repair, architectural drawing, X-ray technician, police.

The students are graduates of the five public high schools and St. Anthony's.

The students are Benjamin Jay Alhadeff, Lakewood; Jane Alpizar, Wilson; Anna Benson, Millikan; Suzanne H. Crisa, Millikan; Charles E. Daggett, Jordan; Susan Margaret Guerin, Wilson; Donna M. Hall, Jordan; Terri M. Men-shek, Wilson; Barbara A. Roos, Poly; Karl E. Neely, Poly; Alan V. Shiell, Lakewood; Ramona Sutton, Wilson; Brenda Wolterman, St. Anthony's.

Second-year recipients are James M. Gardiner, Millikan; Barbara Ann Garfield, Lakewood; Arthur G. James, Jordan; Diane Messersmith, Millikan; Carole M. Patten, Poly; Karen Robertson, St. Anthony's.

Molester Suspect

A 15-year-old Long Beach youth was looked on suspicion of crimes against children Friday after two young girls told police they were molested near two West Side apartments.

The barefoot teen-ager is accused of offering a 4-year old and a 6-year-old money to perform sexual acts.

Police, assisted by the first victim's father, spotted the youth outside his home nearby at 2 p.m. He was arrested by juvenile authorities. The teen-ager by both victims, officers, matched descriptions given said.

S. C. Gould Dies; Sears Ex-Manager

Stedman C. Gould, 61, former Sears manager in Long Beach and Los Angeles, died this week at his home at 4210 Myrtle Ave.

Gould's death was discovered Thursday. A heart attack is believed to have been the cause.

Funeral services will be announced by Forest Lawn, Glendale.

Gould was active in the Downtown Kiwanis Club for 23 years and was a former president. He was lieutenant governor of Division 13 at the time of his death.

Gould, a graduate of UCLA, remained active in the work of his fraternity, Sigma Pi.

He is survived by his wife, Carolyn; two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Abbott and Mrs. Carol Ann Mumma, and four grandchildren.

Almost All Gout Cases Can Be Controlled

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Gout, said by some to be the most painful disease known, doesn't necessarily have a predilection for the executive suite, a medical authority said in Long Beach Friday.

"A ditch-digger can have it too," according to Dr. Nathan E. Headley, a former chairman of the Arthritis Foundation.

"Gout is not reserved for executives," said Dr. Headley, associate clinical professor of medicine at USC, in a lecture at St. Mary's Long Beach Hospital.

Reason: "It's hereditary," according to Dr. Headley.

Some studies have suggested that the intelligence and drive of gout patients are higher than average.

Fortunately, 90 per cent of all cases of gout, one of the earliest diseases recognized by man, can now be controlled by a combination of two drugs, Dr. Headley said.

Dr. Headley said the drugs are two old standbys—colchicine, a pain-killer, and probenecid (Benemid), a drug that increases the body's excretion of uric acid.

(Gout is marked by excessive level of uric acid in the blood.) If these two drugs don't work, a new one, allopurinol, can be added to the regimen, he said.

Allopurinol, also known as Zylprim, is an "extremely valuable" drug, he said, because of its mode of action.

Unlike other antigout drugs, allopurinol actually blocks the production of uric acid.

"A tremendous drug," Dr. Headley commented. But because of allopurinol's newness, it should not be used in "the first line of attack," he suggested.

To date, however, few bad side effects have shown up following the use of allopurinol, he said.

Although high living doesn't cause gout, as once thought, overindulgence in food and alcoholic drink can trigger attacks, Dr. Headley said.

As a consequence, acute attacks of gout are often seen around a holiday season, he said.

Gout is a disorder of uric-acid metabolism—meaning that the body chemistry is out of kilter, resulting in more uric acid in the tissues than ought to be.

As a result there are periodic and sudden occurrences of painful, swollen joints, particularly of the big toe.

Dr. Headley says patients have told him: "It's the worst pain I've ever had."

The drugs indomethacin (Indocin) and phenylbutazone (Butazolidin) are valuable drugs to cope with acute attacks, he said.

Then, a maintenance program—a "lifetime program"—using colchicine and Benemid can usually control the disorder, he added.

Dr. Headley's appearance was supported by a grant from Merck Sharp & Dohme, pharmaceutical firm.

5-CENT TAX TRIM?

Orange County Sees Rate Cut

By BOB GEIVET

With the spectacular 13 per cent increase in Orange County's assessed valuation, the probable tax rate to finance a record budget can be trimmed from four to five cents, it was learned Friday.

Should the Board of Supervisors consider the $102.6 million general government budget as low as can be whittled, the tax rate needed would be $1.78 or $1.79. The board had figured last week that it would call for a tax rate of $1.82, up nine cents from the present $1.73 rate.

Supervisors said they do not consider that a hike of five cents on the tax rate would be "out of line for this budget."

County Assessor Andrew J. Hinshaw estimated the assessed worth for the county for 1967-68 fiscal year would be a record $2,876,153,210. This is up $306,404,110 from the current fiscal year.

Hinshaw's estimates included a probable five per cent increase in the worth of public utilities, which are assessed by the state in August.

He said there is a "chance" that these might increase more than five per cent, but "it is unlikely."

The general government budget proposed at $102,569,661 is $7.4 million higher than the budget financing this fiscal year, which ends June 30. It is almost $20 million more than the budget for the 1965-66 fiscal year, which had a tax rate of $1.71.

IN ADDITION to the general government budget financed by local taxes, there will be $17,422,284 in the road budget; it is funded by state-collected gasoline taxes, license fees and other levies, and involves no local funds.

That raises the budget to $119,991,945 under control of the Board of Supervisors.

Other additions to the budget include $2,744,522 for the county library and $332,319 for the county fire department, adding $3,076,841 to the supervisory control for a grand total of $123,068,786. These are not general government items, however, since they are special funds collected from districts less than county-wide.

A total of 438 new positions, adding $2.4 million to the payroll, are provided in the 1967-68 fiscal year budget proposed for Orange County.

The Orange County Medical Center wants 86 more on its staff; the county jail personnel would increase 77, there would be 66 added to the juvenile hall and 62 to the welfare administration, topping the list.

Salaries and wages would increase $4,742,470 to a total of $48,607,480.

33 TV Sets, Cash Stolen by Burglars

Thirty-three television sets worth $3,340 were stolen Friday from the TV Rental Service, 2462 Atlantic Ave., by burglars who pried open a rear door.

Long Beach police said $200 was also taken from a cash box.

Officers said the prowlers parked a truck in an alley next to the shop, climbed over a six-foot fence and forced open the door.

After rifling desk drawers and file cabinets, they loaded up TV sets from the display room, police said.

FOURTH STRAIGHT YEAR

Signal Hill Cuts Taxes—Again!

The City of Signal Hill is looking forward to the time when it can eliminate property tax, Fred Baxter, city administrator, said Friday.

His remark followed a 1-cent cut in tax by the city council, bringing the rate to 83 cents per $100 assessed valuation. This makes the fourth consecutive year that taxes have been reduced in Signal Hill. The rate in Long Beach is $1.50, which is not high in comparison with many cities.

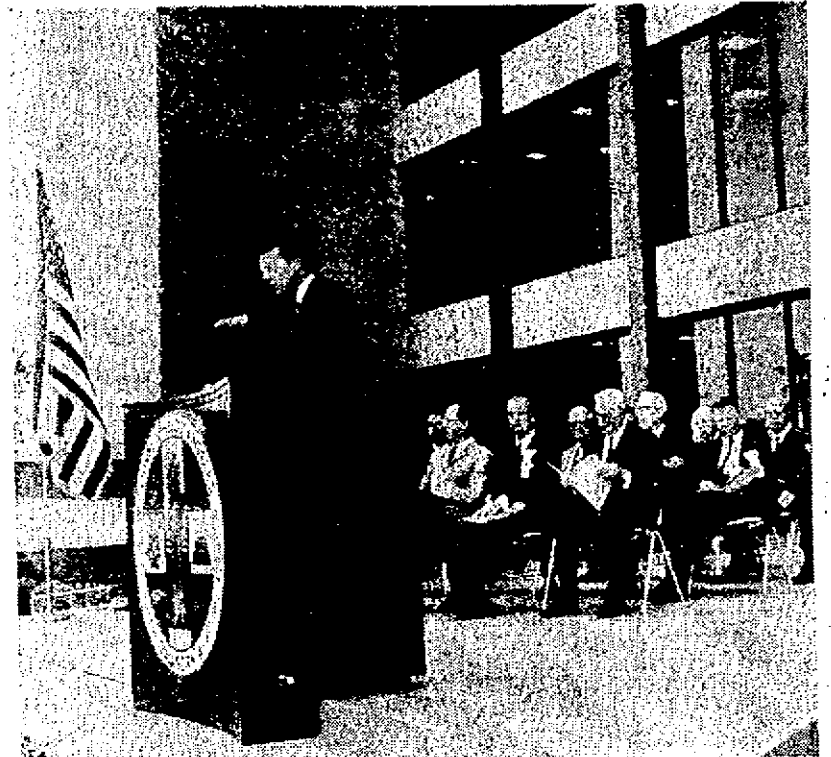

At the same time the City Council gave city employees a 4½ per cent across-the-board increase. City wages have increased 26 per cent in five years.

"There are several reasons why Signal Hill can cut taxes and increase costs," Baxter said. "Most important is our continuing clean-up campaign which is attracting new business to Signal Hill. Sales tax last year was $119,000 over estimate, bringing the total to $519,000. And the increase in new housing actually raised the total property tax revenue."

"We are able to pay our employees more because they are worth more. We have good employees who want to give a good day's work for a good day's pay. The raises are a strong incentive. And we have increased the output per man by giving him good equipment to work with."

Signal Hill is a city without debt.

Sale of Yacht 'Marcheta' Confirmed, but Up $10,000

Sale of the luxury yacht Marcheta was confirmed in U.S. District Court Friday, with the price advanced another $10,000 but the new owner still the same.

Later bids meant that Cyril W. Welch, retired industrial laundry owner, had to up his purchase price from the $70,000 he bid at public auction at the Long Beach Marina Sunday, but Welch is now the official new owner, reported auctioneer Mario Piatelli, of Beverly Hills.

Piatelli noted $80,000 is "still a very good price" for the 136-foot converted minesweeper that is estimated to be worth $400,000. The craft has been owned by Mrs. Marcheta Carter, who lived aboard and developed a reputation as a "mystery woman" in splendid isolation.

The vessel became involved in litigation arising from charges for work to prepare it for a world voyage and was ordered auctioned to satisfy liens.

While bidding remained open, pending the court confirmation of sale, Piatelli said, H. E. Palmer, owner of Palmer Electric Co., South Gate, raised the offer to $77,000, to which Welch responded with the $80,000. Sale was confirmed by Judge Albert Lee Stephens Jr.

Welch has said he plans to refurbish the vessel and either sell it or operate it on charter.

Alamitos Bay Bridge Open For Traffic

The newly constructed, northerly half of Second Street Bridge over Alamitos Bay has been opened to traffic, and demolition of the southerly half of the old span was begun Friday.

Guy F. Atkinson is removing the old bridge and building a new and wider span under a $763,970 contract. The new bridge is scheduled to be completed in October.

One lane of traffic in each direction is open on the north half of the bridge. When the bridge is completed, it will have three traffic lanes in each direction.

First Pier J Well Produces

The first well drilled on Pier J in the Port of Long Beach by Thums Long Beach Company produced its half millionth barrel of oil on Thursday, according to a company spokesman.

The well, J-145, was spudded on July 16, 1965 and produced its first barrel of oil on August 4.

Since then the company has completed 145 wells. Cumulative production from the Long Beach unit has reached approximately 15.5 million barrels as of June 1, 1967.

LOEL SCHRADER

were unaware that the governor of California was shaking hands behind them.

Southland Firms Seek Scripps Job

Among the five potential subcontractors submitting proposals to furnish and operate a drilling vessel during a project planned by Scripps Institution of Oceanography were three Southern California ocean-oriented companies, it was revealed Friday.

Jeffery D. Frautschy, assistant director of Scripps in San Diego, said the institution had received proposals to provide a vessel capable of drilling wells down to 2,500 feet in water as deep as 20,000 feet from Ocean Science and Engineering, Inc., Long Beach; Western Offshore Drilling and Exploration Co., Santa Fe Springs; and Global Marine, Inc., Los Angeles.

Frautschy said also that two Texas firms, Sea-Mole International, S.A., Ingleside, and Southeastern Drilling, Inc., Dallas, had submitted proposals to provide a vessel during the 18-month research effort.

The project calls for drilling and taking of core samples in both the Atlantic and Pacific, Frautschy said.

The vessel must be capable of supplying laboratories, quarters, and subsistence for 21 scientists. It must be self-sustaining for periods of 60 to 90 days between ports of call, the director said.

The project is part of the National Ocean Sediment Coring Program of the National Science Foundation.

Postal Workers Staging Salary Protest Today

Long Beach postal workers will stage a quiet demonstration today from 10 a.m. to noon in front of the main post office, Third Street and Long Beach Boulevard.

"We want to point out the inequities in pay for postal employees," a spokesman for the Long Beach Postal Union of the National Postal Union said Friday.

The demonstration is being arranged to "bring the public's attention to the fact that postal people have not achieved equality in pay," the spokesman added.

It was pointed out that workers are averaging less than $6,000 a year, and the NPU is seeking a 15 per cent pay hike or one-year upgrade for all, effective July 1.

The spokesman noted that a current bill offers 4.5 per cent which "is not enough."

The NPU has sent letters to all members of Congress seeking the hike.

Today's activity will be the fifth in Southern California in the past month. Others have been in Lakewood, Glendale, Torrance and Riverside.

Lawndale Widow Given Navy Cross

By BUCK LANIER
Navy Editor

A Navy widow stood bravely Friday and received the Navy's highest award for her husband.

Hospitalman Gollie L. Grant, 4451 W. 164th St., Lawndale was killed Sept. 19, 1966, in Vietnam, but in his death he was cited for "extraordinary heroism in the fulfillment of his duties while working with the 26th Marines, 3rd Division during Operation Prairie and resulted in saving the life of a wounded Marine."

Rear Adm. Horace V. Bird, commander, U.S. Naval Base Los Angeles, made the presentation to Mrs. Grant in his office at the Long Beach Naval Station.

Only the Medal of Honor stands above the Navy Cross. Just five crosses have been awarded in the Vietnam War.

THE CITATION, signed by then Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze for President Johnson, said:

"... The lead squad came under intense automatic weapons and sniper fire, wounding several Marines... Hospitalman Grant ran unhesitatingly forward for 25 yards through deadly enemy fire to aid the wounded... He was hit while moving toward the nearest wounded Marine, but ignored his wound and crawled toward the injured man... While applying battle dressing Grant was hit again, but selflessly continued to complete treatment and directed the casualty to the rear... Moving toward another wounded Marine, Grant was mortally wounded by a third round..."

Hospitalman Grant had been in Vietnam nine weeks.

REAR ADM. Horace V. Bird presents Navy cross to Mrs. Gollie L. Grant, widow of Hospitalman Gollie L. Grant who was killed last September in Vietnam.

The averages declined slightly on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Trading was heavy throughout the week on the American Stock Exchange, where many lower priced issues got a big play.

Addressograph-Multigraph —68— and Magnavox —41½%— have acted particularly well in the weaker market this week. The former has reached a new recovery peak and indicates a near-term objective of about 70 while Magnavox has been able to overcome some unfavorable industry comments in the financial press and seems to be capable of reaching the 45 area as its first objective. U.S. Smelting —65¼— has been attracting buying on any dip and this issue appears to have further gains ahead of it. Mead Johnson —33%— Philips Electronics & Pharmaceutical —37¼— and Dresser Industries —52¼— Philadelphia & Reading —63%— and United Fruit —43½— have been in a consolidation phase this week but these issues do not seem to have exhausted their upside potential.

Livelier Discussions Than Last Year Mark Methodist Convention

By LES RODNEY

If spirited debate means more life, as some folks hold, Southland Methodism is more alive than it was in 1966. Unlike last year's rather quiet session, there were fireworks at the 117th annual conference this week.

As 1,500 ministers and lay leaders representing about 500 churches and 270,000 members filled the great chapel on the pastoral Redlands campus, sharpest words flew in discussions of Christian concern on that nagging bugaboo, the remnants of structural segregation within the national Methodist Church, and on Vietnam.

Since racial questions and the war are probably also the two hottest issues among the general population, one might conclude that the church is increasingly in the world.

The segregation issue, oddly enough, erupted in the vote favoring the impending merger of the 10-million-strong Methodist Church and the United Evangelical Brethren. Oddly because race has nothing whatsoever to do with the union with the 750,000-strong EUB, which has no structural segregation problem at all.

AND EVEN more oddly because among the "nay" voters on unions were to be found some of Methodism's most ardent ecumenists — as for instance the widely respected veteran leader Dr. Russell Clay, who pastors the Community Church in Seal Beach Leisure World.

It should be quickly noted that nobody at all sounded off in favor of segregation, and that includes delegates with a Southern background who spoke. And nobody was voting FOR segregation when they voted yes on union — a fact readily conceded by the "rebels."

What it's all about, in brief, is this. When the Northern and Southern wings of Methodism reunited in 1939, a compromise measure permitted an all-Negro "Central Jurisdiction." One of six major divisions, and the only one based on other than geographical lines, it was spread across 13 states within the Southwestern and South Central boundaries.

Through the years since, there has been much unease, and some bitterness, about this reluctant concession to old Jim Crow.

It should be noted that much progress has been made in recent years on a voluntary basis. This includes the transfer out of the segregated jurisdiction of whole conferences, as well as individual churches. In this process, two of the five Negro bishops came to preside over mostly white conferences, in the North Central area, perhaps an underplayed step forward. Since 1964, no Methodist church has been part of a segregated Negro setup except in the diehard Southeast.

And now the merger language urges the voluntary elimination of all structural segregation, with a target date of 1972.

THOUGH TOO strong for some in the Southeast, this is not good enough for many who believe any structural segregation intolerable in a Christian communion in these days. And so some of them took the occasion of the merger vote to make their principled stand. Said Dr. Clay:

"I understand why many will vote yes, and it hurts me to have to say no to union. It is said that some would not understand a no vote. I would rather be right than be understood. I have to vote against this union, much as I favor union, because this still permits the annual conferences in the Southeast to do as they please about segregation. I believe God does not want in the year of 1967 segregation in His church."

Many more delegates applauded the speech than the number who voted "no."

Conference treasurer Dr. J. Wesley Hole may have won some delegates back to the "yes" side with a reasoned appeal in which he termed a protest vote a completely misdirected effort in this context, and

GOD AS 'GROUND OF BEING' CUTS NO ICE WITH KENNEDY

Preaching in his usual informal (and eloquent) style to delegates at Redlands, Bishop Gerald Kennedy dropped in an unmistakable thrust at some of the new theological concepts, making clear that he differentiates between the need for the church to have social concern for the world of its own day, and the watering down of the concept of God and God's role.

The bishop's text was from the Old Testament: "He Is Not the God of the Dead, But of the Living," hitting at ultra-conservative notions that religion is always on the side of the safe and the status quo and must say no to everything new. "The old Testament," he said, "was Our Lord's Bible. He knew it well." And then he added parenthetically, "It doesn't talk about God as some ground of being, or as a vague truth, or light . . ."

pointed out that a "no" vote actually put the protesters "on the same side as the avowed segregationists." Only in several deep South conferences, where many consider the 1972 voluntary language too strong a push toward equality, has the merger resolution been voted down.

It was apparent that the argument at Redlands was hardly a matter of black and white.

The final vote was 725-177. The voting on Vietnam was much, much closer.

LAST YEAR at Redlands, you could hardly tell there was a Vietnam War going on (much to the dismay of some delegates who felt the Southland Conference's traditionally bold "cutting edge" was being blunted.)

This week, delegates had in their hands a statement by the Board of Christian Social Concerns which was at least as strong a questioning of the U.S. position as that advanced by any denomination in the land. Along the walk leading to the big line-up for meals the Wesleyan Youth had set up a Vietnam Concern booth, with literature, recordings, and earnest young men and women pleased to answer any questions and explain what they were about. On the announcement boards was the prominent "Vietnam Witness Committee challenges you, as a Christian, to join us in responsibly witnessing against the war in Vietnam, 9:30 p.m. . . ."

It was quiet different. Vigorous — and inevitable — debate erupted when the statement was put to a vote. It contained such strong language as: "Looking over our shoulder, the nations of the world stand aghast as they see the most powerful military machine in the world pour more and more men and firepower into this small and impoverished country." It asked, in a series of "sincere questions troubling many of us" such questions as:

"How sincere have we been in our talk of negotiations?" "If our position is moral, why are the other nations of the free world, the secretary general of the United Nations, the Pope, and the World Council of Churches all so critical of our policies?" "Is it in the interests of democracy to support a government in Vietnam that systematically stifles all opposition to its policies among its own people?" "In as much as the 17th parallel was never established as a boundary, but as a provisional administrative line pending elections, are we justified in terming the struggle an 'invasion' rather than civil war?" "Are we prepared, against military advice, to move into a major land war on the land mass of Asia if China enters the fray on behalf of a beleaguered North Vietnam?"

ENOUGH delegates considered these questions unpalatable to defeat the resolution. But Gallup Pollers and pulse takers might find interest in the startling fact that the motion to eliminate these "far out" questions carried by only one vote.

A majority of seven was then won for the shortened resolution, the heart of which remained the dovish "Today the greater risks are in the direction of escalation, the lesser risks in the direction of peace."

In a communion in which the role of the bishop is traditionally a strong one, rather than that of a figurehead, and particularly where that bishop is as popular and charismatic a leader as Bishop Kennedy, his own shift of position on Vietnam in the past year undoubtedly had something to do with the unbirdlike spectacle of doves on the offensive and hawks on the defensive.

With typical candor, Bishop Kennedy has stated that, once a "mild hawk," he has become "increasingly a dove." The war, he says, "confronts us with its denial of the faith of the Christian Church" and "it seems clearer to me every day that we can never justify a continuing escalation . . . I think the church must say to the nation that this war must be stopped."

DR. RUSSELL CLAY
'Rather be Right . . .'

Though emotions run high even among men and women of God these controversial questions, the arguments and atmosphere were not the same as one finds on the same subjects in the secular world.

Always there was respect for the motivation of the speaker, attention to what he said, and when the matter was done and disposed of by the ballot, the very same people sat down together in continued earnest fellowship and addressed themselves as Christian brothers and sisters to the other matters on hand.

Church-State Barrier Periled, Say Rabbis

The mounting campaigns by sectarian forces seeking financial assistance for their religiously sponsored school systems seriously threaten the principle of the separation of church and state, the Central Conference of American Rabbis (CCAR) was told this week in a report by the organization's Committee on Church and State delivered at the conference in Los Angeles.

The report also pointed out that the "battlefield" for monetary aid has shifted from the "federal to the state arena." The groups are seeking changes in existing laws, introducing new legislation and attempting to alter the constitutions of some states, the report said.

It pointed out a combination of factors has added to the danger. One condition cited was the coalition of Roman Catholics with Orthodox Jewry, both of which need funds to maintain their parochial schools. Rabbi Edward E. Klein of New York, chairman of the committee, stated:

"Those seeking aid have found limited assistance granted through federal funds, and at the same time have been blocked legally through various decisions in the U.S. Supreme Court."

He added, "Many people are afraid to upset the applecart of the newly found ecumenical spirit. Therefore, the state has become a new target, since it is easier to mount public opinion on this level."

The CCAR report called upon its 1,000 members to maintain the rabbinic group's 60-year historic position of the strict separation between church and state.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Tackle Your Fear and It Will Die

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

"Fear is the great modern plague," said Dr. Smiley Blanton. Note the emphasis — not a great plague, but THE great plague of our time.

He was referring, of course, not to that normal fear which causes us to express proper concern and exercise sensible caution. But rather to that abnormal fear which lurks in the dark recesses of the mind and fills it with ghosts and spectres.

How can a person get free of this type of fear? You will never really live until you do. One thing that should be stressed and emphasized is that fear is removable. Indeed, any bad emotion is removable. Anger is removable. Hate is removable. Depression is removable. Inferiority feelings are removable. You can be free of all of them provided you really want to, and want to badly enough. Nothing is more important than to be free of fear and really live.

Thomas Carlyle puts the matter strongly: "The first duty of a man is that of subduing fear. A man is slavish until he puts fear under his feet."

Quite a lot has been written about analysis and psychiatric treatment in getting rid of fear. I have no criticism of their procedures but one cannot help wondering if the problem is always as complex as it is made out to be. Some pretty great people have been freed from fear by a simple and direct method — they just stood up to their fear.

THEODORE Roosevelt who was a strong and tough-minded man said, "I have often been afraid. But I would not give in to it. I simply acted as though I was not afraid and presently the fear disappeared." In other words, he stood up to his fear and told it to go and it did. Fear backs down when you keep standing up to it.

Another Roosevelt, Mrs. Emerson's, "Do the thing courage and confidence result from the experience of looking fear straight in the face."

Think of the many fear-ridden people across the years who have been given a new lease on life by that tremendous statement of Emerson's, "Do the thing you fear and the death of fear is certain." Walk up to the thing you are afraid of and hit it hard and it will begin to fold. A straight frontal attack on your fears, buttressed by a good healthy faith in God, and you are in and fear is out.

Actually there are two great forces working in the human mind: fear and faith. One destroys; the other creates. Even though fear is strong, faith is stronger; and the more you build up your faith the more certainly you will undermine your fear.

I talked with a chaplain whose job is to counsel with men just arrived in Vietnam. He prepares them mentally and spiritually for the rugged experiences ahead.

All men going into battle, he declared, must face the problem of fear. But what troubles them most is the fear that they will be afraid. Can they stand up to it — when the shooting begins and gunfire rips into quivering human flesh? They want to meet it like men, the chaplain told me, and if they must die they want to die like men, unafraid. The advice the chaplain gives is: "Put your trust in God. Remember what you are fighting for. Help your buddies."

One young soldier seemed particularly concerned that he would be afraid when it got rough. The chaplain reminded him of the strong stuff of which he was made. "Your faith, son, is stronger than any fear," he told the young soldier.

HE WAS IN Vietnam only a short time when his outfit came under fire. His lieutenant was out in front and was hit twice, and fell in the direct line of fire. The boy sensed that the officer could not survive another wound — another and he would die. Without a moment's hesitation the soldier, forgetting his own safety, crawled out to the lieutenant. He curled his body around his officer, protected him from further fire; and in so doing took two bullets in his own

EVANGELICAL FREE CHURCH SAYS FEDERAL LOANS SI, GRANTS NO

A denomination which turns down free money for its schools must be acting out of pretty strong principles. Especially when it is a relatively small group, like the 50,000-strong Evangelical Free Church of America, which concludes its week-long conference in Long Beach Sunday. And a growing denomination with lots of building plans, which in turn cost lost of money!

Dr. Arnold T. Olson, president of the Minneapolis-based communion, explained something of those principles.

"Our church has a historical background of having broken away from the state churches in the old countries, and it paid a big price for that. This is deep in our people, to do things themselves, rather than have the government dictate to them."

The Free Church runs Trinity College in Illinois, which recently was accredited as a four year liberal arts school, in addition to its thriving Divinity School, for which there are 1500 applicants.

As with such other firm believers in the separation of church and state as the Southern Baptists, the Free Church has run into the dilemma of trying to compete with schools which accept federal educational grants — and feels pressure to bend the principle to make the schools better and stronger.

"We had a poll last year," Dr. Olson said, "and our people were 91 per cent against accepting federal grants. After receiving all pertinent information by our committee to study the matter, the percentage rose to 97.8."

This week, the convention voted overwhelmingly to hold the line against outright federal gifts, but to accept loans on favorable federal terms. Washington needn't worry about getting the money repaid.

Dr. Olson is also first vice president of the National Association of Evangelicals, with which the Free Church is affiliated.

As to the particular thrust of his church, now that its ethnic Scandinavian origin is no longer a factor in belonging, he puts it this way: "We are conservative evangelicals, and stress Bible-centered individual salvation. Within that framework we like to feel we are broad enough theologically to take in anyone. We don't make an issue out of some things which divide — like the age and mode of baptism. Nor do we go to extremes either way on liturgy, or in our position in regards to other denominations."

This, he feels, may be one of the reasons for the fact that in the past year the sect recorded an 8 per cent growth in membership.

There will be a "Youth Night" at Municipal Auditorium tonight at 7:30. A closing rally Sunday at 3 p.m. will be addressed by U.S. Congressman John B. Anderson of Illinois.

Mormon Youth Gather in Utah

SAL LAKE CITY (AP) — Young Mormons—their robust exertions and religious devotion spreading to the wooded outskirts of Utah's capital—met here Friday for the annual June conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon).

More than 30,000 members of the church's young men's and young women's Mutual Improvement Associations will spend three days sharing and improving what they call "spiritualized recreation."

The 2.6 million member denomination has become widely known for its skill in preserving the loyalty and standards of its youth through the commonly unstable teen-age period.

body. Later they both were saved.

Asked about it afterward he said, "I asked God to help me save my lieutenant and He did."

"But were you not afraid?"

"Never thought of that," he replied. "I just had to save my friend." With no thought of himself his fear faded. And it always will when you stop thinking exclusively about yourself.

Pay Tribute to Galilee Navy Family Chapel

A most unusual chapel will celebrate its 25th anniversary Sunday at 11 a.m., and it rates a big salute from the City of Long Beach.

It is the Galilee Navy Family Chapel. Back in June 1940, retired Navy Chaplain Truman P. Riddle started worship services in his home for Navy personnel and their families. The home was soon outgrown, and in 1942, Chaplain Riddle asked permission of the Episcopal bishop (the chaplain's faith) to build a chapel, and got not only permission but support.

So it was that in 1943 the chapel was built on Ocean Boulevard.

In 1956 it was moved to its present location at 2015 W. Hill St. in the midst of the Navy housing project, and was dedicated by Episcopal Bishop Eric Bloy "to the honor and glory of God for all Christians."

Worship services from the start have been completely ecumenical, and completely integrated. Besides the regular worship and a Sunday School of 250 children, social assistance

(JAMES)

Christian Scientists believe that an inspiring and healing understanding of God's love is within reach of every man, woman, and child. It grows and unfolds in your life through consistent study, spiritual searching, deep prayer, and the willingness and constant effort to live by the law of Christ. This is the reason for the Christian Science Bible Lessons, the Reading Room, the church services and Sunday School. You are always welcome.

FROM

Do you see any relationship between the prayer decision concerning our schools by the Supreme Court and the present state of unrest, rebellion and demonstrations in our schools?

When you take the Bible and prayer out of schools, that which it suppresses immediately comes to the front.

There is such a thing as sin, and there is such a thing as righteousness. God's attitude for sin has always been the Bible. David said: "The word have I hid in my heart; I might not sin against thee."

We do not need less of the Bible and prayer. We need more of it. And if we do not permit it we will have a higher price than we think.

We could have better families, better homes, better communities, and a better nation. We would have it if we had more serious and thoughtful people. If our churches would return to the preaching of the Word, and our seminaries were dedicated to the study of the Bible, this harvest that we are reaping who planted it, or did it last year?

We believe that every Christian ought to seek a spiritual home where the Word of God is honored and revered. If you have such a church home, consider Calvary.

There had to be a Calvary. Come to Calvary. Calvary is for you!

EXPO 67's DRAMATIC CHRISTIAN PAVILION
All Canada's Major Denominations Unite in Unique Venture

Expo's Christian Pavilion Stirs Praise, Controversy

Going to the fair? Almost everyone from the Long Beach area who has been to Expo 67 in Montreal says it's a great one!

The Christian Pavilion, a unique venture in church cooperation, stands on the western shore of a small, peanut-shaped island called Ile Notre Dame.

Built on a half-acre site between the pavilions of Greece and the United Nations, the structure is among more than 100 spread spectacularly across two islands and a peninsula in the St. Lawrence River.

Taking part in the display, which reports say is proving a popular one, are Canada's Anglicans, Roman Catholics, Baptists, Lutherans, Greek Orthodox, Ukrainian Greek Orthodox, and the United Church of Canada, which includes Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists. They represent about 95 per cent of the nation's Christians.

The pavilion is easily accessible by Expo-Express, a mass transit system serving the three grounds of the $750 million exhibition. Its stainless steel cars stop less than a city block away.

AS A JOINT project of Protestant, Roman Catholic, and Orthodox churches, the pavilion offers a single Christian message. The joint witness is believed to be unprecedented in the history of international exhibitions.

The entrance features a large T-like cross, selected because of its lack of identification with any particular communion, and a garden. The building's exterior is concrete white, and its roof is sharply-pitched and inverted.

The exhibit, largely audio visual in nature, consists of three zones.

The first employs scores of still and moving pictures to produce different scenes, closed-circuit television and other devices designed to depict contemporary man.

The second zone, an effort to portray the world man has made, also uses still photographs as well as a motion picture which bears the theme of the pavilion, "The Eighth Day," as its title. The film is about 13 minutes long.

The third involves a series of large, mural-type pictures along a 90-foot wall which are related to biblical texts to show meaning and hope in Christ.

The exhibit confines traditional religious symbolism to the tau-cross at the entrance. The cross also appears, however, on the pavilion flag and on the identifying pins worn by the pavilion's 10 hosts and 16 hostesses.

THERE IS neither stained glass nor statues, pulpits nor paintings, and, aside from the cross, there are only two small signs in English and French to identify the exhibit as the Christian Pavilion.

Still photography in the first zone ranges from portraits of children and adults to scenes from the office, the street, the beach, the theatre, and elsewhere. Mirrors in their midst add the image of the visitors.

Nearby, along a ramp leading to the second zone, photography is used to depict such degradations of man as poverty and prejudice, sex deviation and narcotic addiction. The movie focuses on a half century of wars and their horrors.

Five wall-size photographs from the first zone, together with frequently changing illustrations above them, await visitors in the final zone. Biblical texts in modern English and French, used with the pictures, include:

—For us a Child is born. He is the Light of men.

—You do not live by bread alone. I come to bring you life, far more than before.

—He died for all that all might live. By this we know love.

—Why search for Me among the dead? I am with you always.

—You are called to freedom, now through love, serve one another.

Less than two weeks after the six-month exhibition opened on April 28, the number of pavilion visitors soared past the 100,000 mark. The anticipated number of 7,000-a-day was overshadowed twice by crowds as large as 2,000.

Several changes were introduced after the opening. Some stemmed from the unexpected number of visitors while others resulted from an appraisal that certain aspects of the exhibit could be strengthened.

ACCORDING to pavilion personnel, two changes were prompted in the second zone because of the size of the crowds. Lines were introduced to assure each visitor an opportunity to view the motion picture, "The Eighth Day," it was explained, and benches were added to the small theatre to improve both capacity and viewing ease.

The biblical texts used in the third zone were given increased exposure by supplementing the imprint below each picture with scripture-imposed slides that flash periodically across the screens overhead.

Permanent signs to identify the pavilion were also added, one outside the entrance and another in full view of visitors passing by in the exhibition MiniRail, a small elevated train.

Rev. H. Elmer Bartsch, a Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod clergyman serving as deputy commissioner of the pavilion, noted in an interview that the exhibit has stirred some controversy.

"A few individuals have criticized us severely for presenting the negative so dramatically, and some have objected to the lack of clarity of the clear Gospel message," the parish pastor observed. "Others have expressed delight."

Mr. Bartsch added philosophically that "the Christ whom I (the exhibit) presents was certainly a controversial figure in history."

"Basically," he explained, "the objective of the pavilion is to get the visitor to ask 'How do I relate to Christ?' rather than give him a series of pat answers that he might get from an electronic device."

The commissioner said the exhibit appeared to be most popular among "the younger people who are oriented to television communication."

CHRISTIAN Pavilion Day was observed on May 13. Highlights included flag raising ceremonies at the Place des Nations, in which the Commissioner General of the Expo, Pierre Dupuy, participated, and a three-hour concert. The following day, an estimated 12,000 persons gathered at the fair's Automotive Stadium to observe Christian Pavilion Sunday through prayer, hymns, scripture reading, and addresses in English, French, and Greek.

Participants paused during the program for a silent, one-minute prayer that all Christians might be

CAMPUS MINISTER SPEAKS OUT

Rakes Exploiting of Teens in 'Horrible' New Films

Hollywood producers are exploiting the teen-ager's real need for self-understanding and identity with phony sex and "protest" films, it is charged by a prominent youth counselor.

Movies designed for appeal to the youth viewers these last two years, asserts David F. Lehmberg in the July issue of Together magazine, are "horrible" specimens of the film art—very poor "in content, cinematography, and dramatic impact," marked also by bad acting and forced situations.

"I love the film art and its possibilities too much to sit by without protesting these protest films," writes Rev. Lehmberg, who is Methodist campus minister at USC.

Assuming that 75 per cent of today's motion picture audiences are under age 25, he notes, film producers rushed to make a boxoffice killing by appealing to teens.

About a year ago, Lehmberg reports, there was a spate of "Beach and Bikini" films which "exposed a lot of teen anatomy, but always within the confines of 'the acceptable'—lots of leg, many a bulging bikini, an abundance of cleavage, and a plethora of wiggling derriere, but absolutely no nudity."

"Such films expressed a WCUTU approved moral code regarding such relatively superficial aspects of morality as smoking and drinking," he continues.

But he brands them as featuring "sterile sex." "Pure escapist entertainment," Lehmberg adds, these low-budget productions made money. But they did not reflect accurately today's youth.

B and B pictures now have given way to "more adult" films—"protest" films representing young people "in rebelling against the forces of adult society."

While the new fad films play up the "alienation of youth from the rest of society," Lehmberg shows that they "picture an exaggerated and unreal adult world," and offer pat answers. Their formula is "young equals good, old equals bad; pretty equals good, ugly equals bad," he points out contemptuously. And, he charges further, they raise phony issues.

Lehmberg deplors "that these pictures offer so little to help youths understand themselves, their elders, and society." They back away from any real examination of current problems, he adds.

Despite a slight so-called gap between youth and their elders, Lehmberg, maintains that "communication can and does take place." One of the principal differences between the two groups, he says, is that today's youth has been educated "in the world of Dr. Einstein, while their parents have been educated in the world of Sir Isaac Newton."

"Sex orgies, violence, and-or capitulation are not the only alternatives to the generation gap, as these movies would have us believe," Lehmberg states.

GOINGS ON

Rewrite the Record Book— Ryun 3:51.1, Wilson 17-8

WORLD RECORD RUN

Jim Ryun of Kansas U. runs into tape at National AAU championships all alone, but it was a lonely joy, for he lowered his world record in mile to 3:51.1.

—AP Wirephoto

BAKERSFIELD — Electrifying Jim Ryun of Kansas smashed his own world mile record Friday night with a clocking of 3:51.1 in an astonishing race in which the first seven finishers broke 4 minutes.

In the night's final event, Paul Wilson of USC pole vaulted 17 feet, 8 inches, a full inch above teammate Bob Seagren's world standard.

Seagren missed three times trying to clear 17-8. Performing on the final night of the annual National AAU Track and Field Championships before 11,600, Ryun broke his own record of 3:51.3, which he set at Berkeley, Calif., last year.

"I'm very, very happy with my time," said the 20-year-old Ryun. Later, from the victory stand, he waved happily to his parents who flew out from Wichita, Kan., and watched their son's finest moment.

Ryun's lap times were 59.2, 59.8, 58.6 and 55.5.

Ryun was given a tremendous ovation in a victory trot around the track.

Ryun jumped into an immediate lead and held the pace throughout the four laps.

The phenomenal Kansas sophomore went into the final lap with a lead of some 25 yards and ran the final 440 with a sensational burst of speed.

Ryun ran the last half mile in 1:52.2 and the final 440 in 53.5.

Veteran Jim Grelle of Portland, Ore., with his usual late charge, was second in 3:56.1.

The unscoring seventh place went to the brilliant high school runner from Essex, N.J., Martin Liquori, who was timed in 3:59.8.

Ryun had made no promises for a record run prior to going into action. But the moment he took off, the crowd sensed it was in for a rare evening.

The dark-haired, handsome speedster running for the Jayhawk Track Club, built a modest lead of about seven yards on the first lap. The margin was a little closer on the next, but it was Jim all by himself for the final 880 yards.

Dave Wilborn, Oregon, was a good track to run on, but he attributed the big run to "my good condition."

He said he plans to run next in the U.S.-British Commonwealth meet at Los Angeles July 8-9.

"The competition ought to be in the first two laps helped a lot," said Ryun, complimenting his opposition.

This was the 12th time Ryun has broken 4 minutes and for Grelle the 19th.

Veteran Ron Laird of the New York Athletic Club launched the action by setting an AAU record in the 2 mile walk of 13:41.4. It better Ron Zimm's time of 13:48.6 set in 1964.

Randy Matson, Texas

A&M, won the shot put at 66-11 for the second year, breaking his own meet record of 64-11. Neal Steinhauer, Oregon, was second at 65-5-4.

Lee Evans, Santa Clara Youth Village, broke the AAU 440-yard dash record with 45.3 in the final. The old mark of 45.8 was shared by four others, including Evans, who did it last year.

World record holder Tommie Smith, on leave from the U.S. Army at Ft. Lewis, Wash., turned on Javelin — 1. Delmon McHabb, Louisville, Ky., 263.2; 2. Gary Stenlund, Covington, La., 261.1; 3. Larry Smith, SC Striders, 258.0; 4. William Smith, Delaware T&F Club, 241.0.

Triple jump — 1. Charles Crabb, Long Beach, 46.1; 2. Darrell Horn, Athens, AC, 45.4; 3. Henry Jackson, Long Island, 45.1; 4. Paul Taylor, SC Striders, 44.8; 5. Norm Tate, New Jersey Astronauts, 43.9.

Pole vault — 1. Paul Wilson, SC Striders, 17.8; 2. Tom Laro, New York, 17.4; 3. Tom Laro, New York, 17.4; 4. Tom Laro, New York, 17.4; 5. Tom Laro, New York, 17.4; 6. Tom Laro, New York, 17.4; 7. ## No Way to Stop Yates' 66

CLEVELAND (AP) — Young Wayne Yates, refusing to buckle under pressure, birdied four of his last nine holes Friday for his second successive 66 on the way to a two-stroke half-way lead in the $103,500 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

The 25-year-old Georgian, turning in another four-under-par performance, had a sparkling 132 total after 36 holes, eight-under-par for the distance.

The Atlanta pro, with earnings of only $3,781 this year, had not even teed off yet when Arnold Palmer charged home with a 68 and a 135 total for the early lead.

And a short time before the rangy Yates began his birdie barrage, veteran Gardner Dickinson birdied the last three holes to come in with a 66 and a 134 total.

Young Set Rules State Am Semis

PEBBLE BEACH (AP) — Four of the youngest golfers ever to reach the semi-finals of the California Amateur Championship fought their way Friday past tough opponents, two of the old-timers, at chilly Pebble Beach.

In what had to be one of the finest matches ever played in the 56 years of this tournament, towering Jim Rehm, 24, of Chula Vista had to shoot a 5-under-par 67 to beat 23-year-old Jack Ewing Jr. of Bakersfield, 1-up. Ewing had a 69.

Another match that carried to the final hole saw husky Guy Bill, 21-year-old Oakland slugger, edge out tiring Robert A. Roos Jr., 49, of Hillsborough, 1-up.

A third match decided by the same 1-up score advanced 23-year-old Harry Taylor, just out of the Army, over Bernard Magnusson, 30, of Atherton.

While these three matches were being settled the hard way, red-haired Bob E. Smith, 24, of Sacramento was eliminating a stubborn veteran, 43-year-old Bill Fernandez, Downey school-teacher, 5 and 4.

Rheims, a 6-2, 215-pound power hitter who graduated from Stanford before taking up his medical studies at Tulane, goes against the unpredictable Guy Bill in the first semi-final off the tee today.

Smith, holder of the Northern California match play title as well as the San Francisco city championship, takes on straight shooting young Taylor, who has been playing lots of golf since getting out of the service in April. The semi-finals are fought over 36 holes with the survivors testing their physical endurance again Sunday in the finals over the same distance.

Rheims went ahead on 14 and 16, however, and although Ewing won the 17, he lost on the final hole when both birdied 18.

Upper bracket — James Rehm, Chula Vista, def. Jack Ewing, Bakersfield, 1-up. Guy Bill, Bakersfield, def. Robert Roos Jr., Hillsborough, 1-up.

'Pitch and Putt Millie' Nips Becker for Women's Title

By DOUG IVES

To hear the women talk, if an outsider was to win the Long Beach City golf title, it couldn't happen to a nicer gal than Mildred Stanley, the pride of Griffith Park and always a charming, courteous competitor.

Just to prove that nice gals, like nice guys, don't always finish last, Mrs. Stanley upset Long Beach's Jane Becker, 1 up, Friday at Skylinks to win her first city crown in four tries.

"I'm elated to be a champion and rated in a class with some of the winners you've had here," said the Hawaiian-born housewife whose only previous major tournament win was the Los Angeles County Championship two years ago.

Generally overlooked in the field despite winning medalist honors with a 77, Mrs. Stanley played steady, near-par golf all the way in her four matches. Not a long hitter, her chipping and putting made the difference.

"Everyone knows me as 'pitch and putt Millie,'" she laughed not long after tears graced her cheeks following a conceded one-foot putt on the 18th green that ended the tense match.

"I thought all along that Jane was the one to beat," Millie said, "and I kept telling myself not to play her — just the course. I thought par would win and it did."

Actually, Millie shot a 37-74, one over women's par and two over for men. A mark of consistency, she hit 12 greens and didn't suffer any three putts in registering 14 pars.

Mrs. Becker, a three-time winner who had a tougher path in reaching the finals, also played well. She hit 12 greens and three-putted only once in shooting 37-38 — 75.

"I thought I played well enough to win," said Jane, who first won this tournament as a teenager in 1955.

The turning point, according to Mrs. Stanley, came on the 16th hole, just after she had won the 15th to go 1 up.

"I hooked my second shot on 16," Millie related, "and was near the fence, about 40 yards from the cup. I know I shouldn't brag, but I hit a tremendous chip about eight feet from the hole and sunk the putt to halve the hole."

On the 15th, Mrs. Becker flew the green, chipped back and two-putted for a bogey while Mrs. Stanley was on the front edge and stroked a 70-footer to within 2 1/2 feet of the cup and holed it.

After halving the 17th in par, Mrs. Stanley used a 5-wood from only 155 feet for her second shot on 18 and put it about 20 feet from the stick.

"I love that 5-wood," she said. "It's like my putter. I'm confident I can hit it where I want to and I knew I had to hit this shot on the green."

Mrs. Becker's iron shot came up 30 feet short and her game try for a birdie rolled two feet past. Then Mrs. Stanley lagged her putt within 12 inches, Jane conceded the match.

In the consolation flight of the championships, Trudy Keel of Alondra scored a 3-2 win over Norma Deeb.

Sleepless Father Sees Daughter Win Tee Crown

SEATTLE (UPI) — Martha Wilkinson of Cal State Fullerton won the women's NCAA golf tournament at the Sand Point Course Friday with a 6-5 victory over Roberta Albers of Miami, Florida as her father beamed happily from the sidelines.

"I think I was more excited than she was," claimed Herb Wilkinson, "I left Los Angeles at 1:30 a.m. and arrived in Seattle at 4:30. I haven't been to bed yet." Herb was wide awake to watch Martha par 12 holes and notch two birdies in the 18-hole morning round and pick up nine pars and another bird in the afternoon.

Herb, 64, of Seattle, was a member of the 1936 U.S. Olympic team and a member of the 1936 U.S. Olympic team and a member of the 1936 U.S. Olympic team.

Martha, 21, of Fullerton, was a member of the 1936 U.S. Olympic team and a member of the 1936 U.S. Olympic team and a member of the 1936 U.S. Olympic team.
